

music

LAST SUPPER FESTIVAL

Get your fill of music, art, and film in Brooklyn this weekend.

As summer's end of days draw near, Brooklyn's third annual Last Supper Festival might be your last chance at outdoor entertainment. The Hope Lounge in Williamsburg hosts a cornucopia of food, film shorts, avant art, and indie music from borough-born bands including Childress, the Tall Grass, and Dorie Colangelo. And with proceeds going to The Food Bank For New York City, you won't be feasting alone.

MACKENZIE WAGONER

Hope Lounge

10 Hope St., NY

www.myspace.com/lambastic

This story was published on September 27, 2007.

 Take a few moments to share your opinions.

